Dear Dr. Durbin:

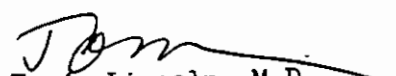

I have attempted to get more information on I talked to Dr. Shoup of the Oak Ridge Operations of the AEC, and he looked in the early security records and found a man with a name very similar. The name they have was , and we assume this stood for His age was essentially the same, although no birth date was recorded. He was employed by the J. A. Jones Construction Company, but they have no information in the AEC about his Social Security number. Unfortunately, the hospital records have been lost. During the construction of our new hospital, about 12 or 13 years ago, some records from the old hospital were stored in a wooden building, and some children got in there and started a fire. The physician and nurses records were sufficiently burned that they were destroyed. All that remained was the admission cards, which Miss Aliberti, record librarian of the Oak Ridge Hospital, says have been transferred to the AEC.

Sam Shoup has contacted the J. A. Jones Company Personnel Department, and they say they have no records. Sam has been unsuccessful in finding any hospital information in AEC files. The Mancuso study has no information.

There was no service-supported dental clinic. Several private dentists practiced in a single "Dental Health" building, but they are all gone.

So I am afraid we "struck out".

Sincerely,

T. A. Lincoln, M.D.
Medical Director
